

A little bit of Change (new patch features)

Posted by reimaru - 2009/11/05 13:18

After the release of the new update in Atlantica, New contents were introduced; among them was the new mercenary, the Punisher. But we are not talking about the Punisher; we are now talking about one of the new feature which is the Atlantica Diary.

The Atlantica Diary is a new feature where you can view tasks or events that you can participate when you are logged in to the game. When you logged into the game, the diary will automatically pops out to give you updates and new pending tasks. There are three categories in the diary: Things to do, Events and History. "Things to do" are tasks that you can do in the game such as giving gifts, opening boxes, observing a competition, etc, some tasks can be increase by using an Atlas Stone. "Events" are in-game event tasks, these are events that are organized by GMs in the game, and you can also view the mechanics there. And finally, History is more on trivial info about the NPCs in Atlantica. You can open the Atlantica Diary in the My Info menu or by pressing ALT+D

Another new feature is the Clothes Book, similar to the Mount Book; the Clothes Book lets you store your costumes and hats to earn Collection Points. You can also view the appearance of the costume by checking the Clothes Book. When retrieving a stored costume, you are required to pay a 20,000 gold fee. The Clothes Book can be access on the Game Info menu. With this new feature, players can now have a reason to collect costumes and doesn't have a hard time storing them into their inventory.

With the release of the Atlantica Diary and Clothes Book, players will now have an easy time doing special tasks and participating in event and also collecting costumes will now become a breeze.
